Feb 16, 2016

I was a student of Real Programming 4 Kids when I was growing up in Winnipeg, Manitoba in the 90s. I'm 30 years old now with a life based around programming.

I continued to build video games independently for years after RP4K and even successfully sold a few. I've always loved video games and programming and have been employed steadily in programming roles since I was 16. Most recently, I left my role in a Senior Engineering position at Microsoft's Bing.com to pursue various startups including a video game startup.

I've been thinking about RP4K lately and how much it changed my life. My instructor was Adrian Cheater, and I have childlike memories of card tricks with Elliott Bay and a gentle giant named Caveman Bob.

I'm mostly just feeling some nostalgia and a lot of gratitude and wanting to thank you guys for the opportunities you provided me.

Sincerely,

Kenn Sippell

| Founder | Senior Software Design | Project Manager |
| DotaCoach.org | Engineering at Bing.com | Farms.com |